

Situation in Hong Kong for travellers coming from Switzerland

Since 25 March 2020, entry into Hong Kong has not been possible for persons without a residence permit (i.e. those who do not reside in Hong Kong). Every person entering Hong Kong must undergo quarantine upon arrival in Hong Kong. Since 25 December 2020, the quarantine has been extended from 14 to 21 days (Link) and can only be spent in a hotel designated for this purpose by the Hong Kong government (Link to hotel list). For travellers arriving Hong Kong on or after 20 February 2021, please check this hotel list (Link).

As of 2 February 2021, Switzerland is listed as high-risk country. This means that everyone who has stayed in Switzerland or any of the other high-risk countries (also transit) in the last 21 days before arrival in Hong Kong must present a negative result proof of a nucleic acid test for COVID-19 test result in addition to a hotel reservation on arrival. The test must have been taken within 72 hours before departure (for connecting flights this information refers to the last flight).

Accordingly, the following documents are to be presented before boarding the aircraft and when entering Hong Kong from Switzerland:

1. Negative SARS-CoV-2 nucleic acid test in English or Chinese issued and signed by the laboratory that performed the test. The spelling of the name of the tested person must be the same as the spelling in the travel document/passport. You can already fill in your personal information and have the laboratory sign and stamp it. For confirmation, this form can be printed and used: Link
2. A printout of the letter of the Consulate General of Switzerland in Hong Kong Link (This letter confirms that all test laboratories listed on the website of Swissmedic are approved by the Swiss Authorities)
3. A hotel reservation in English or Chinese for 21 days from the day of arrival in Hong Kong made at hotels designated by the Hong Kong government. (Link to Hotel List)
4. All persons entering Hong Kong are also required to complete the Health & Quarantine Information Declaration form provided by the Department of Health online. The form can be filled out and submitted online by smartphone or mobile device before boarding. After the submission, you will receive a QR code, which should be saved and presented upon entry. The QR code is valid for 48 hours. Link
